

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR MOBILIZING MORE TROOPS THROUGHOUT STATE

LEGISLATURE TO WEIGH CHARGES AGAINST WALTON

Members of Lower House to Meet in Oklahoma Wednesday.

COURT PROCEEDINGS

Interest Now Centers In Case to Determine Final Authority

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 20.—Governor J. C. Walton, in an exclusive interview today, declared that additional troops are being mobilized to prevent any "irresponsible assembly" of the Oklahoma legislature. Speaker Murray Gibbons, of the House of Representatives, announced officially today that Governor Walton would ignore absolutely the call for the special legislative session to convene next Wednesday.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 20.—"Call off your gunmen at the state capitol or trouble may start. Military dictatorship of Oklahoma can no longer be endured. The legislature demands the right to meet."

In such militant language legislators of Oklahoma will demand this week of Governor J. C. Walton the removal of military guards barring entrance to the house and senate chambers in the first definite act of a movement of such rising intensity and bitterness as to occasion among moderates general alarm for public safety and peace.

A prominent member of the lower house of the state legislature used the language quoted above in making known to a confidante the fact that the legislature is ready to strike. Within 24 hours formal demand for opening of the legislative chambers will be made on the governor by a quorum of the lower house, it was learned on unquestionable authority. The demand will be filed with Attorney General Short.

Before that swelling tide of opposition in the legislative branch of the state government, Governor Walton stands steadfast. He reiterated with emphasis his determination to block convening of the legislature by direct force. "The soldiers stay at the legislative chambers and the legislators stay out," the governor said. "They shall not meet. They haven't the right. Nothing in our constitution gives them that right. I, as the governor of the state, in command of the military, will prevent any and all interference with my authority and right to clean up the Ku Klux Klan and its corruption of official life in this state."

Quorum Reported Obtained.

Meanwhile, the plans to convene the legislature, the lower house first and the senate later, came out in the open. Legislators began coming into the city from all over the state. The campaign had reached full effect when it was reported from a reliable source that a quorum of the house had been obtained. Sixty-five representatives have been polled and found supporting the move to convene the legislature despite the militant forbiddance of the chief executive.

A majority of the members of the lower House of Representatives will meet here on next Wednesday to consider charges of misconduct in office against Governor J. C. Walton under a call issued early today by Representative W. D. McBee, of Duncan. Simultaneously with the announcement of the call, McBee claims to have the support of 59 members of the House, which is five more than a constitutional majority necessary to meet.

Members of the legislature seeking a special session, in a long list of complaints, today charged Walton on of abusing his powers as chief executive. Among 24 grave allegations, solons charged that the governor had set aside the writ of habeas corpus, and "has turned loose upon the honest citizens of the state a horde of murders and criminals of all characters."

MRS. STOKES MAKES CHARGE

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Subpoenas for 22 persons were issued and an investigation that threatened to reduce society and the underworld to common levels began here today after Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes, of New York, told the state's attorney that her millionaire husband had been spending thousands of dollars in an effort to make it appear that she once had been an inmate in a Chicago brothel, famous for its patronage drawn from the ultra rich.

CROSSES OCEAN IN 30-FOOT BOAT

After crossing the ocean alone in a 30-foot cutter, built 32 years ago coming through three raging hurricanes, in 142 days, Alain J. Gerbault, French international tennis star, has reached New York in a semi-exhausted state. But he is already looking for another smaller boat, to continue his single-handed tour of the world. He sailed from Cannes, France, April 5, and landed at Fort Totten Long Island, after traversing 5,600 miles of ocean. He was often without sleep for four days at a time and for 48 hours was unconscious from illness.

Legless Soldier Charges Doctor With Malpractice

Washington, Sept. 20.—One of the American army annals re-convened here today with Major George W. Cook a medical corps officer, defending himself against the charges of malpractice and neglect brought by a pitiful figure of a boyish soldier, legless at the hips.

In a crowded room in the munitions building, nine officers representing every branch of the service sat as a court to hear the testimony of Private Guy Pendleton, hopelessly crippled, who charges that first one and then the other of his legs were amputated because of improper medical treatment and negligence.

Major Cook was formerly in charge of the post hospital at Fort Eustis, Va.

Another attempt will be made by trial judge advocate Humphrey Biddle today to introduce as evidence the boy's amputated right leg. This attempt was made Monday and failed.

At Pendleton's side at the courtroom sat his aged mother, who, it was alleged had not been notified of her son's serious condition until after all hope of saving his limbs had been abandoned.

More than sixty witnesses will be heard before the court martial is brought to a conclusion. Thirty-one have been summoned in behalf of the prosecution.

In August, 1922, Private Pendleton, then assigned to Fort Eustis with the coast artillery, was injured in a motor cycle accident suffering fractures in both legs. He was taken to the Post Hospital where Major Cook set the limbs.

Left in the care of Captain Samuel C. Gwynn, hospital doctor, who also will answer charges of malpractice at the conclusion of Major Cook's trial, Pendleton testified he was in extreme pain; that his limbs were improperly treated and that eventually both withered.

He was then brought to Walter Reed Hospital here, but his legs could not be saved and it was necessary to save his life that both be amputated, one in February, the other in March.

SAYS CONSTITUTION IS MADE FOR MAN

Piqua, Sept. 20.—"Remember the constitution was made for man, not man for the constitution," Senator J. F. Burke, of Elvira, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, declared here in a mass meeting discussing the "constitution and progress." While emphasizing the value of the constitution for the purpose of protecting the rights and the accomplishing of ends through orderly processes, he declared that he was not at all in sympathy with "those whose desire and determination to magnify sacredness of the constitution is due to their desire to protect the 'status quo' or property claims from the growing demand of humanity's needs which are just and righteous."

"The constitution is made for the race and not the race for the constitution. If it fails to perform its designed function, it should be remedied so that it may perform it," Burke said. "Its failure in relation to slavery caused a great civil war and we had to amend it to prohibit the buying and selling of human flesh."

PAIR RETURNED TO STATE ON CHARGE

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Alleged to have abducted, assaulted and attempted to force Mary Yacobucci, 22, to marry against her will, Leo Dantano and James Cicorio, held by Cleveland police, were ordered returned to Macomb County, Mich., today when Governor Donahey honored a requisition issued by the governor of Michigan.

Fred Yacobucci, Cleveland, brother of the girl, declared that Dantano repeatedly rejected by his sister, had continued to force his attentions upon her.

Cicorio was said to be an accomplice of Dantano. Another man, known only as John Doe, is wanted by Michigan authorities for complicity in the same case.

DISTINGUISHED WITNESSES WILL GIVE TESTIMONY

Governor Donahey Will Act as Character Witness for Hoskins

OTHERS TO APPEAR

Liquor Conspiracy Case In Cleveland Draws New Testimony.

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Governor A. V. Donahey will appear tomorrow afternoon as a character witness for Samuel A. Hoskins, Joseph Shearer and Frank and Fred Counts, now being tried on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law and obstruct the operation of the law in United States district court here, it was announced this afternoon.

In addition to Governor Donahey the array of character witnesses will include ex-Governor James M. Cox, ex-Governor James E. Campbell, United Senators Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess, and other men prominent in the affairs of the state. All these are scheduled to testify tomorrow.

None of these distinguished citizens are expected to testify in any way in regard to the alleged conspiracy, but all are said to be well acquainted with the defendants and able to testify to the good repute in which they are held by those who know them.

Never, it was said here, had such a distinguished company of men been called upon to testify as witnesses in any case in the local district court.

Former Governor Cox appointed Hoskins chairman of the first civil service board in the state while Senators Willis and Fess, both former professors of Ohio Northern of which he has been for sixteen years chairman of the board of trustees are also well acquainted with him.

Before these character witnesses take the stand, each of the four defendants, all well known throughout the state, will have denied in total the claims of the government that they entered into a conspiracy with Louis Auerbach and his attorney, Samuel Rembrandt to violate the laws of the state and to permit the release of vast quantities of alcohol upon the payment of bribes.

BENHAM IS OUT ON $30,000 BOND

Columbus, Sept. 20.—William G. Benham, president of the defunct R. L. Dollings Company of Ohio, was out on $30,000 bond today, following his arrest here Wednesday, and Dwight Harrison, vice president and secretary, was expected to give himself up to authorities upon his return from Philadelphia.

Both men are to be arraigned Friday morning under four indictments containing six counts, charging them with obtaining money under false pretenses, making false statements and embezzlement. The indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday. Trial has been set for October 15.

COOLIDGE FAVORS MERGER OF ROADS

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge favors the tentative plans of the Interstate Commerce Commission to consolidate American railroads into a few major systems, it was learned today following a conference at the White House between the executive and N. L. Amster of Boston, president of the Citizens National Railroad League. Voluntary consolidation of the railroads was provided for by the transportation act of 1920, but thus far the carriers have been unable to agree upon any practical scheme of amalgamation.

DR MACKENZIE DIES

MERCHANTS OF N. Y. FEAR HEAVY LOSSES AS STRIKE RESULT

New York, September 20.—The vital importance of newspaper advertising to the leading department and specialty stores of New York City has been demonstrated clearly by two days of the pressmen's strike that has caused a climatic change of display advertising from the big dailies. Appraisals of the effect of the strike in this field of business were given today by officials of the chief stores in the city.

While few of the officials interviewed were willing to forecast the harmful effect to their business that might be caused if the strike should be prolonged, the consensus of opinion expressed was that the cutting off of liaison between the dealers and the public by the absence of newspaper advertising would be reflected not only in the retail trade but in all other business using the newspapers as a medium.

One official said if the present condition were continued long enough it might cause unemployment in the stores. Another declared that, notwithstanding the fact that his store largely had permanent customers, inability to promote sales through newspaper advertising "guide posts" caused a state of uncertainty in customers which had a deleterious effect on sales, a third official said.

Stores depending largely on special sales were affected most seriously by the loss of the newspaper columns. The announcements of these sales in the newspapers bring throngs of shoppers looking especially for the things advertised. Usually such sales are conducted after only a few days' advance advertising, and the newspapers are the only medium by which the vast public can be advised of the sales.

The effect of the present strike also is especially noticeable at this season, because the stores are placing their new fall goods on sale. Advance advertisements for new styles, necessary to pave the way for the heavy seasonal business, cannot be sent out without the newspapers, and for this reason the heads of most of the stores fear the loss of advertising will have a harmful effect on business later in the season.

INTEREST CENTERS IN DISTRICT COURT

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 20.—Interest in other phases of martial law was suspended today and the eyes of all Oklahoma turned to district Judge Albert Hunt's Court here where military and civil officers will battle legally for the decision as to who is the final authority in Oklahoma. The fight is over the right of habeas corpus.

The proceedings scheduled for 1:30 p. m. involve the appearance in Judge Hunt's court of Adjutant General B. H. Markham, of the Oklahoma national guard with Earl Sack and Ben and Grover Sikes, confessed and convicted in a civil court of whipping. Although turned over to the sheriff by the presiding Judge the prisoners were given over to General Markham by Governor Walton.

Now the men's wives seek their release from military authority through habeas corpus proceedings. It is reported that the summons to appear in court will be entirely disregarded by General Markham, but this is regarded as unlikely.

HUNDREDS ARE KILLED IN COMMUNIST RIOTS REPORTED IN BULGARIA

No Official News of Fighting Received at London Legation—Situation at Sofia Said To Be Under Control Now

London, Sept. 20.—Hundreds of persons have been killed in fighting between Bulgarian communists and troops, according to a Daily Chronicle dispatch from Sofia today.

At the Bulgarian legation it was said no news had been received concerning an uprising.

A telegram from Vienna quoted Bulgarian legation officials as saying that communication with Sofia was interrupted and that there was no official news of fighting.

Both the Chronicle and Daily Express correspondents at Belgrade reported violent fighting in northern Bulgaria. They said that the casualties were heavy.

The situation at Sofia was under control.

The Bulgarian insurgents were said to have won a victory at Radomir, establishing a provisional government. Roads were torn up to hinder the advance of regular troops.

The rebels claimed victories at Karlovo, Dupnitsa and Salkovo, capturing munitions and arms.

The fighting was sanguine. Neither side took prisoners. Captives were put to death if they surrendered.

The Zankoff government at Sofia was said to have taken refuge in a club guarded by troops with machine guns.

Belgrade, Sept. 20.—The backbone of the communist revolt in northern Bulgaria has been broken by the prompt measures of the government, said a dispatch from Sofia today. The Macedonian committee is threatening to join the insurgents. Sofia charges that neighboring Balkan states gave assistance to the rebels. Martial law is being strictly enforced.

COOLIDGE SAYS ENFORCING OF LAWS NECESSARY

Each State Must Do Its Share—Federal Courts Congested

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge plans to bring about a more drastic enforcement of laws by requiring each state in the union to assume its share in prosecutions, it was learned at the White House.

The program is aimed directly at dry law enforcement, but involves all federal laws where states have similar statutes, it was stated at the department of justice. A comprehensive survey of the situation has just been completed by Attorney General Daugherty.

This study revealed that the whole trouble has been brought about by state legal officials throwing all of their prosecutions into the federal courts. This situation can be remedied by the simple expedient of having the states relieve the United States judiciary of the burden, it was stated. If President Coolidge calls a conference of Governors in October, as now contemplated, he will lay such a program before them and ask their co-operation in putting it into execution. If not he is expected to communicate with the state executives direct, it is understood.

In the meantime instructions have been issued to district attorneys and federal officials in the various districts to have them endeavor to have local officials try all cases where state and federal laws are nearly identical.

The main congestion is for violations of the prohibition law. It was stated, but there has been a growing tendency to throw any number of fraud cases into the federal courts when they could be tried just as well, or better, by the state judiciary. As a result, the courts are so far behind that the once famed machinery of speedy justice in "Uncle Sam's courts" is a tradition instead of fact, the department of justice stated. It is this situation, it was learned, that has prompted President Coolidge to seek co-operation in the enforcement of all laws instead of limiting the program to dry enactments.

With a few exceptions the states have dry laws fully as drastic as the federal statutes. The states also have a more elaborate machinery for the detection of law violations, it was stated, and make the majority of arrests, but when they do, instead of bringing prosecutions for violations of the city and state laws, the arresting officers almost invariably turn the prosecution over to the United States attorney.

Experts at the department of justice, who have been working on the program, believe that the revenue from penalties, which now comes into the federal treasury, may easily be dispensed with by the government and held out as an inducement to states to take a hand.

MRS. MAMIE CROW DIES ON THURSDAY

After a short illness, following an attack of acute diabetes, Mrs. Mamie E. Crow, 42, of 135 East Main Street, died at the Espy Hospital Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Crow was taken ill Wednesday with the disease from which she had suffered for some time, and was removed by her attending physician to the Espy Hospital, a short time before she died.

Mrs. Crow was born in Bridgeport, Greene County, and had spent practically all of her life in Xenia. She lived a number of years ago in Dayton. Her son, Wilfred Crow, was killed only a few months ago, when a machine in which he was riding was struck by a train, on the Cincinnati Avenue crossing. The only near surviving relative, is a brother Heller Hampton, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

PUBLISHERS WILL FIGHT STRIKERS

New York, Sept. 20.—Curtailed metropolitan newspapers—in size and editions loomed as a possibility—for an indefinite period today when New York newspaper publishers called off all dealings with the 2,000 striking pressmen, who walked out early Tuesday morning.

Basing their action upon the declaration of George L. Berry, international president of the Pressman's Union, who branded the strike "out-law," the newspaper owners have served notice upon Berry that they not "deal with the defiant New York web pressman's union, local No. 25 and would await his promised action to revoke the charter of this local union and to charter a legal union."

The statement of the publishers was to be presented to the striking pressmen at a meeting this afternoon.

The best time for giving the below suggestions a thorough trial is immediately upon arising in the morning.

All that is required to carry them out is one or two quarts of boiling water, a minute quantity of salt, and a cup that will hold from one-half a pint to one pint of water. The second phase of this treatment is exercise.

Before beginning the nerve-stimulating exercise drink the first cup of hot water, putting a pinch of salt in the bottom of the cup to take away the flat taste of the hot water. Pour the cup half full of boiling water and then add cold water until it is sufficiently cool to be rapidly swallowed. Drink the water as hot as possible without sipping it.

Now place the open palm of the left hand on the forehead. Now while pressing vigorously against the movement, bring the head from far backward to far forward. Continue until fatigued and vary the exercise by using the right hand instead of the left.

Then interlace fingers behind the left leg just above the knee. Now, while slightly resisting the movement with the left, lift upward vigorously. Continue the movement until a slight feeling of fatigue is produced.

Now stand erect, spine rigid and straight as possible. Bring the left leg upward, bending the knee and grasping the leg almost under the knee. Now lift the leg as high as possible by merely bending the arms at the elbow. Continue each one of these movements until a feeling of fatigue is noticed, after which you are ready for a second cup of hot water.

Don't hurry. Don't continue any movement to exhaustion, although a feeling of local fatigue in the particular muscles concerned is desirable. This feeling, however, should entirely disappear after a rest of one or two minutes. After the second cup of hot water you are ready for the exercises.

Hook the fingers of the right and left hands together at the back of both legs a little above the knee. Now make a vigorous lift upward. Relax and repeat until a definite sensation of fatigue is produced.

Mrs. Lodie Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. LODIE, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MISS FLYNN'S RECEPTION OR MISS PRUGH WEDNESDAY

Miss Mildred Prugh, whose marriage will take place next month, is the honor guest at a beautiful reception party, given by Miss Marjorie Flynn, Wednesday afternoon, from four to six, at her home, North Detroit Street.

Sixty guests spent the hours, sitting in groups, about the spacious rooms of the Flynn home. At five o'clock, the dining room was thrown open and a delicious menu of salad, ice and sweets was served buffet style.

Miss Doris Flynn and Miss Julia Wolf, poured tea and coffee during the reception hours. Miss Florence Steele and little Betty Flynn, assisted in the dining room. Miss Margaret Steele and Mrs. Shoemaker, of Columbus, assisted in the reception room.

Miss Margaret Kelly skillfully cut and served the large three-tiered wedding cake, which occupied the center of the handsome table. The team was served in the form of pink roses, and four-leafed clovers, used in a setting of green leaves. A profusion of pink gladioli and large baskets of pink cosmos decked the dining room, which was lighted by tall pink candles. Large baskets of pink and yellow zinnias, with clusters of gladioli, brightened the living rooms of the home, the whole of which was thrown open for the occasion.

The party was charming in its spirituality and appointments, the first of a series of parties that are to follow the formal announcement of the wedding date, made last week the home of Miss Julia Wolf.

Miss Prugh and Miss Marjorie Flynn were classmates at Wellesley College, and Miss Flynn will be the maid of honor at Miss Prugh's wedding, October 12.

In the evening, following the reception, a few young people called for an informal dancing party, which was enjoyed for several hours, at the Flynn home, honoring a bride-elect and Mr. Edmund Mann Muir, who is a house guest, the Flynn's.

The out-of-town guests were Miss Virginia Denver, of Wilmington, and Mrs. Perry Shoemaker of Columbus.

DRIFTING INTO THE WHIRLPOOL.

It is admitted everywhere that the fiscal situation of Germany is desperate. Its currency is worth nothing. The German government has almost no revenue except the worthless bills it prints. Trade, both external and internal, is ceasing, for no one will exchange valuable goods for meaningless bits of paper. A very large part of the German nation has already gone down to ruin and semistarvation. A much larger part is uneasy and angry, ready for any reckless means of escape from its unhappy situation.

Yet the disorder is purely financial. The industrial system of Germany, the real wealth of the nation, in land and productive machinery, is in as good condition as ever. Some say it is better, and that money that ought to have gone to the support of the government and the payment of its international liabilities has been deliberately used to extend and improve the industrial and commercial resources of the nation. That is what M. Poincare has in mind when he warns the world from the political platform that Germany still aims at "economic primacy" and would quickly achieve it if it could wriggle out of its obligations under the Versailles Treaty.

The German policy of endless inflation has succeeded in creating the impression that Germany is bankrupt and unable to pay. It has, indeed, actually made it impossible for Germany to pay in any coin that the allied nations will accept. But it has not destroyed the economic wealth of the country. It has simply transferred the ownership of it from those who formerly held it to the speculators, the profiteers and the industrial organizers who were shrewd enough to see how to "make money" out of the falling mark. It has wiped out, or nearly wiped out, all old debts, public and private, has beggared the thrifty and well-to-do class and conferred wealth and political power on the "hard-faced" men, of whom Stinnes is the type.

But its worst effect is not economic but moral. The virtues on which Germany grew great—thrift, industry, love of learning, thoroughness, orderly family and community life—are threatened, and many of them are destroyed. There is no motive for thrift no reward for industry no respect for learning.

THE BUSINESS OF TEACHING.

Teaching is the most universal of the professions. Nearly everyone, at some time or other, has to act in the capacity of teacher; comparatively few persons except those specially trained have to act in the capacity of lawyer or doctor or minister. So it is important that everyone should try to acquire some of the simple rudiments of the art of teaching.

First of all it is necessary to have a friendly attitude toward both pupil and subject. The "boss" or the foreman who takes the new employe in hand and in a friendly, interested manner instructs him in the work that he is to perform will get good results; the boss who scowls at the novice, resents his greenness and shows that he himself is tired and disgusted at the idea of having to tell a new hand what to do is sure to be a poor teacher. And enthusiasm about the value of the work to be performed and the interest to be found in doing it is sure to be contagious; the diffident and doubting apprentice can be roused to efficient labor if he has an instructor who is full of zeal and confidence.

Impatience is the failing of most persons who are not brought up to the business of teaching and who find themselves temporarily or incidentally required to act as teachers. The very fact that they are not accustomed to spend day after day watching and helping pupils in the struggle to acquire knowledge makes them fail to realize how slow for the ordinary persons the process of learning anything is. They become too much aware of the other things besides teaching that they themselves ought to do or want to do, and often in their irritation they resort to sharp reproof or to sneers and sarcasm—methods of stimulating the pupil that the good teacher adopts but sparingly and only at times of special stress.

The ability to teach successfully may usually be taken as the measure of a person's unselfishness.

PRINCE OF WALES SPENDS FIRST DAY ON HIS RANCH.

At High River, Monday, Lord Renfrew, known in England as the Prince of Wales, became a rancher. Although it is his own ranch, he did not pick himself an easy job and was at work at 8 o'clock helping a crew of husky farmhands fill silos with chopped sunflowers. He did not stand around and watch the boys do it. Wearing the same kind of clothes as his companion laborers, Lord Renfrew did the same kind of work. He took the lead in chopping the silage for the blooded livestock on the ranch.

Because he had just finished a long trip, Lord Renfrew started the day late and did not arise until 7 o'clock, his secretary explained. He hurried through his breakfast to be at work at 8.

"Lord Renfrew is going to finish the work of filling the silo and then do some stocking on the ranch," his secretary said while the Prince was eating a hearty noonday meal with the crew.

"How does he like it?"

"Just fine and he is feeling great," said the secretary.

Cowboys, ranchers and townspeople of the High River district accorded the Prince a hearty welcome when his train arrived. For the first time in Canada the Prince walked to the main street of the town unaccompanied by either Secret Service men or police.

"They are my neighbors, why should they not greet me?" asked the royal rancher and the police were compelled to watch the proceedings of welcoming the royal ranch owner from their private car.

As the Prince reached the street David Bear's Paw and Red Cloud, minor chiefs of the Stony Indians from the Morley reservation, were waiting to greet him. Bear's Paw stood erect and in perfect English said: "Greetings, Chief Morning Star; your brothers of the Stonies salute you."

The Prince hesitated for a moment, then gravely proffered his hand and said: "Morning Star is proud to greet his brothers." Those who overheard the conversation applauded heartily, and no one was more pleased than the Indians themselves.

Letters To The Editor

THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Editor The Gazette and Republican: The Citizenship Committee of the American Bar Association at the recent National meeting of the Association recommended the celebration of a Constitution Week, Sept. 16th-22nd, for the purpose of promoting a "better education of our people in the essentials and spirit of our government and the principles and ideals of our government." The members of the bar in every community were recommended to give the matter their endorsement and support. A committee was appointed by the Greene County Bar Association to present a brief address to the people of the County in pursuance of the above recommendation.

It has been One Hundred and Thirty Six years, on Monday last, since the adoption of the written constitution by the convention, and its submission to the Congress and thirteen states. It is not out of place here to call attention to the fact, that this lapse of time has provided a pretty good test, as to the wisdom of the provisions embodied in the constitution.

Amendments have been made, it is true. But of the nineteen amendments ten were offered by the first Congress convening and were adopted, almost at once, by the States. One was dropped in 1794; another in 1803; three grew out of the Civil War and four are recent additions. It will be noticed, also that but two subjects treated in the original draft of the Constitution have been revised or modified by amendment. All the other amendments may be considered as omissions from the original or have become necessary by reason of the progress of the nation.

We would recall to your minds, and the other and more severe test, namely the growth and development of our nation under the wise and beneficent provisions of our constitution.

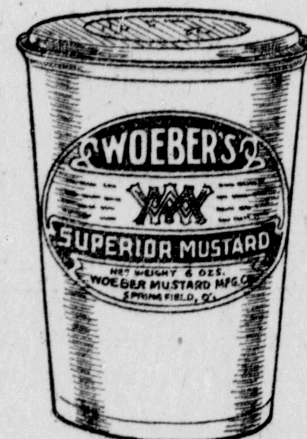

Under these, and by reason thereof, we have grown great as a people. We well know that others may take issue with us on this point, and in doing so, they will adduce the many, varied and important elements, which combine to produce a material progress and well being. We will allow that all of these are present, and contribute in a vital way to national upbuilding. But it may well be doubted, if a single one of them, or all of them combined, could do more than meagerly effect our progress, without the strong, vigorous and efficient government organized by sanction of, and in strict conformity to the fundamental law of our land, certain it is that every elemental factor of our progress is strengthened and wrought to a high measure of effectiveness by reason of the same beneficent power. Today there are vast regions of the earth's surface so rich in natural resources, that they could alone, if properly used, furnish food supplies for a considerable number of the earth's inhabitants, into which the more fortunate countries are today, or did in the recent past, ship vast quantities of food stuff, as aim and benevolence to relieve actual starvation. And this because a weak or tyrannical government could, or did not so command the confidence of the people, that the human element could apply itself to the labor of production. One rather small island produces a large percent of the sugar used in this country. From Central Mexico southward, stretches a land containing regions of fertile soil, some of which are more extensive than the entire island of Cuba, yet producing only a little of sugar or any other commodity for home consumption, practically nothing for export. These conditions are not uncommon either. They prevail widely over the world. We, who live in a land under a system of law, so productive of the well being of all, are most happily situated, and we ought to entertain the most profound respect for that body of law, which is the expression of the Supreme Sovereignty of our people.

The Constitution has its critics. We do not pause to notice these here. Let us merely say that some of these are sincere, and should be heeded; some are vain and foolish; still others are malicious and are fully determined upon mischief.

Following the recommendation of the American Bar Association, the Greene County Bar Association, desirous to recommend to the people of Greene County a most serious and painstaking consideration of the weighty matters herein indicated. We hope that this will be taken up in the community assemblies, in the church brotherhoods, in high schools and colleges and wherever a wide-awake interest can be aroused in a truly great American question.

No Need of Worry

Recent events show the uncertainty of investment in stock companies. Seven per cent preferred stocks may be worthless.

But money deposited with The Columbian is always safe, and pays the actual net worth of money in the market—now 6%.

Depositors have no need of worry. The money is ready for them when needed, and the assets of over $18,000,000.00 are almost altogether invested in first mortgages on land worth double the loan.

You may deposit by mail and end your own worry.

THE BREEZE FROM THE LAKE.
The August sun for three long days
Besieged the world with troops of fire;
Relentlessly he held the ways
And watched our weakening courage
tire.
The breeze was landward, parched
and dry.
Scarce strong enough a leaf to shake,
And turned was many an anxious eye
To catch a ripple on the lake.

The lake alone could send relief.
Breeze after breeze by night and day
Battled the tyrant sun, and failed.
Children grew listless in their play.
The cheeks of weary mothers paled.
The trees stood silent, solemn, sad,
And seemed to pray: "For mercy
sake,
Send help! The sun will drive us mad!
Lord, send a breeze across the lake!"

We saw a distant cloud arise,
A ship full-sailed and painted black,
But soon the monarch of the skies
Sent out his force and drove it back.
The couriers of the night returned
And brought but tales of pain and grief.
For miles the fruitful fields were burned—

We saw a whitecap break the blue,
We saw a tree's arms move about,
And then we heard a song we knew—
The whistle of the north wind stout.
The leaves began to dance with glee.
We saw the sun's brown forces break.
The siege was ended—we were free.
God's breeze had reached us from the lake.

Today's Talk

LET THE PEAKS LEAD YOU—

The human being doesn't live who travels all the time "on high," as they say in automobiles terms.

We all have to shift sometimes to "second" or into "low." The hard pulls take more power, more concentration.

Neither do we all scale the heights, nor travel them all the time. We are all of us acquainted with the valleys and the lowlands.

But that which leads us and keeps us up our average so that we may go on and on with courage, is the "high spots" of our experience—the peaks of our vision.

It is an inspiring sight to view a range of distant mountains with their peaks looking into the blue sky above, some of them white with the eternal snow.

I like to look at a towering building with its upper stories piercing the air above. To me such a sight is the story of what a man is able to do with his dreams. And then I think of each man and woman and boy and girl whose life grows in service within the heart of that structure.

Let the peaks lead you. Lift you up.

take your eyes off the ground.

The darkest day passes.

With every life there is intermission the stuff of eternity.

Only to him who has climbed, suffered, slipped back, does there come realization of what there is in the peak that always points upward.

So, my friend, let the peaks lead you!

OHIO BATTLE FLAGS TO BE CASED WITH SPECIAL CEREMONY

Ohio battle flags will be unfurled for the last time September 29, in Columbus, when flags used by Ohio organizations in the World War will be cased in permanently sealed cases, beside those containing the battle flags of other wars in the State House rotunda, according to announcement just made by the American Legion department of Ohio.

The ceremony for the occasion will consist of a parade from the State Arsenal to the State House for the purpose of escorting the flags to the State House. In the parade the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserves as well as the veterans of the late war will participate. As the colors approach the State House, the national salute will be fired by artillery. Upon the arrival at the State House the colors will be presented to the state by Major General McRae on behalf of the United States Army. They will be received by the Governor of the State.

It is desired that these battle flags be carried in their final parade by the same color sergeants who carried them in the war. Efforts are being made to invite color sergeants to Columbus for this occasion so that they may carry these colors. Color sergeants who served in Ohio regiments during the late war and who will attend the ceremonies are asked to write at once to the Adjutant General of Ohio setting forth his name and address together with the organization whose colors he carried in the World War.

The American Legion of Ohio was instrumental in obtaining legislation which made the permanent casing of these battle flags possible. The casing of these flags is a solemn and historic occasion. The flags will hereafter belong to future generations.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TO START SATURDAY WITH LESSER GAMES

The annual football meal this fall, that will be served from coast to coast and border to border on the oblongs dedicated to the autumn game by universities, colleges and high schools, will get under way with a sprightly entree as an appetizer Saturday.

Fourteen college games scheduled for Saturday are expected to whet the sensibilities for bigger things that are coming. Teams involved are those not involved by the structures of any conferences and are permitted to begin practice early. Mostly they are games designed and carried into execution for the benefit of the stronger aggregations. Green material will be experienced in these desultory engagements over the country and new players as well as new plays will be given trials by watchful coaches.

The most ambitious set-to scheduled for this section is the pasturing between Butler and Hanover at Indianapolis. Hanover will be merely a sharp snig stone for Pat Page to brighten up his athletes on but the game will not be without interest. Colgate is the most important team opening in the east, taking on Alfred in a game in which Colgate will have all the fun. In the South Texas A. and M. opens with Fort Sam Houston. Army will get under way in the east playing a team from the Third Army Corps. Kansas City university will play Rhode Island in the west.

From the major part the college teams will not swing into action until next week, when most of the big time eleven will get their gridiron baptism for the 1923 season. High schools however are less dilatory. Many of the prep schools will be busy this week end, including both Dayton teams. Steele will meet Greenville and Stivers will play Aquinas of Columbus, both games being played in Dayton. Xenia Central will not begin its fall campaign until next Friday when it entertains Wilmington High here.

College games scheduled for Saturday are: Butler vs Hanover; Colgate

TASK OF NAMING WINNER IN GOLF MATCH DIFFICULT

Flossmoor Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 20.—With Bobby Jones and Chick Evans, who started as the hot favorites, eliminated from the amateur golf championship the task of naming a winner appeared more difficult than before the tournament.

Some hot matches were on the list for today. First out, were Jesse Sweetser, present champion, and Jesse Guilford, of Boston, a former champion. They met at Brookline last year, when Guilford held the title and Sweetser won. Now Guilford has an opportunity to revenge that Brookline defeat.

Another match that looked interesting was between Francis Ouimet and George Von Elm. Von Elm has been surprising every one here but a few who knew what a great player he is. George has hidden his game out in the valley of the great Salt Lake but it has been winning blue ribbons at this exhibition. Marston, who won much fame yesterday by beating Bobby Jones, met Joe Wells, the Ohio state champion, today and Bob Gardner was paired against D. Shute, of Wheeling, W. Va., who has lasted longer at Flossmoor than any other of the unknowns.

King Davis, who twirls for the Red Sox just recently did the iron man stunt when defeated the Reserves on a Sunday and came back the next day and set Manager Jesse Chambliss's warriors down again. Davis will be on the mound for the colored lads again this Sunday, and if he is right he will no doubt send a few of the Bayliff clouters back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Thompson will receive his slants. This lad has lots of pep and a fine throwing arm. Thompson uses an old glove to catch in and handles Davis's hooks with one hand. It is worth the price of admission to see this lad don the mask and glove. The Red Sox will present their same lineup which means that Shoecraft will take care of the initial sack, Pete Willette of Wilberforce or Webb will play at second, Warner will hold down the hot corner "Mouse" Porter, Nelson and Os Cunnigan will make up the outfield, Spriggs, Sterling and Shoecraft will make up the utility while Jones will be relief hurler.

The Bayliffs will use the same players that took part in their own games and playing on their own grounds they feel sure they will be on the long end of the score next Sunday. Bayliff will have Shuey on first, Longnecker on second, Early on short, Furnace at third and Leach, Kavanaugh and Stiles will take care of the gardens. "Stony" Fuller, Paul Fuller and Bath will be in reserve. Herman will shoot them across while Catton will catch. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock with competent officials in charge.

Breakfast No. 1

The finest cereal dainty ever served

No breakfast dainty can compare with steam exploded rice. In texture, flavor and ease of digestion it holds the supreme place. Grains puffed to dry morsels, 8 times normal size. Food cells broken so digestion is made easy. A nut-like flavor due to fearful heat.

The greatest night dish is Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk. That is whole wheat steam exploded. The wheat supplies 12 minerals growing children must have. Also their need of bran. Milk is rich in all three vitamins. Make whole wheat and whole milk tempting in this delightful way. Then people will revel in these matchless foods. Millions of people are better fed since Professor A. P. Anderson invented Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. Let no day pass without them.

Every time I see a picture of a French boudoir, with its luxurious silks, its shaded lights, and its frivolous frills, I find myself thinking: "Well, it may be overdone—but it's got the right idea! It is soothing and restful and feminine."

Of all the rooms in the house, our bedroom should be the daintiest. We may not, with good taste, have delicate pinks and blues in our downstairs color schemes, but in our bedroom these tints are entirely suitable. Imagine a gilded droplight with a rose-bud decorated on your living room table; yet, in your bedroom such a lamp would merely add charm.

Why may we not have delicate colors and frilly ornaments downstairs? Because they destroy the dignity of a living room. But in the bedroom we need not think of dignity. The bedroom is the place where we let down our hair and slip on a dressing gown—where we relax for a period of rest. It should, therefore, be furnished and decorated in an informal manner.

I once overheard a woman, standing before a shop window, say: "Look at those telephone shields with china dolls at the top—aren't they ridiculous! What full-grown woman would buy one? And I just longed to argue with that critical person! I wanted to say to her: 'I would like one of those in my upstairs hallway. If we can't have intimate, personal things around us upstairs, where can we have them? Must we always be straight-laced and dignified? It is restful to our nerves to have surroundings upstairs that are in contrast with those downstairs."

The upper part of the house is the proper place for dainty surroundings. Let us not be ashamed to express our femininity there in ruffled curtains, lace bureau scarfs, decorative bed spreads, delicate colors, shirred lampshades, dainty work bags, a chaise-longue (if you can afford one!) unusual doorstops

(there are many sold, nowadays—kittens and bunnies and other animals prop a door open), quaint, old-time mirrors for the hallway, and anything else that will make the upstairs seem more intimate.

Downstairs we must wear a mask. Upstairs we can be ourselves—dropping the poise which we wear for callers, and just relaxing.

Wall Paper

Now Outdoes Even Itself!

EVEN the amazing beauty of Wall Paper nowadays is not the most remarkable quality it has. True, the skill of American wall-paper designers, and the deft craftsmanship that uses this skill, seem to work miracles in creating Wall Paper that looks like velvet, like brocade, like leather, like silk and damask and chintz—and yet never is a mere counterfeit at all.

That is wonderful enough. But what is more wonderful is the way in which a capable Guildsman can so alter a badly shaped room—with clever use of Wall Paper. By ingenious handling of bands, borders, panels and patterns he transforms faulty proportions; makes too high ceilings seem suitably low; balances doors that are in the wrong place, overcomes the ugliness of windows, the uneven heights of openings—in a word, makes the room over!

No other decorative means can accomplish all that Wall Paper, in competent hands, easily—and most economically!—can and does.

Your home may be all that is perfect already. If it is less than that, consult any Guild member and learn what he and Wall Paper are able to do to make it the home you wish it were.

YOUTHS ACQUITTED BY JURY OF CHARGE BROUGHT BY GIRL

Herman and Argus Saylor and Lee Greth, indicted on a charge brought by a minor girl, were found not guilty of the charge by the jury which heard their case in Common Pleas Court and which reported at 9:15 o'clock, Wednesday night.

The jury began its deliberations at 3:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At 5:20 jurymen said they could not agree but were ordered to continue their deliberations. After the recess for the evening meal, the jury asked the court for further instructions and then retired again for deliberation. The verdict required a unanimous vote.

John O'Brian, foreman of the jury, which listened to testimony in the case for two days, Pearl Goldsberry, aged 14, was the prosecuting witness. Prosecutor J. K. Williamson was assisted by Attorney L. T. Marshall and Attorneys P. L. Johnson and M. A. Broadstone represented the defendants.

The jury was dismissed finally for this term of court after bringing in the verdict. The court announced the case was the last for this term, and telling jurors they were just as important as any of the officials of the court, he thanked them for their services.

BAD EYES MAKE BAD BOYS HE SAYS

Boston, Mass. September 20.—"Bad eyes make bad boys," said Guy A. Henry, of New York, general director of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, before the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies Wednesday.

The director cited the eye records of Sing Sing Prison as tending to show that eye conditions were a possible incentive to crime and said one fourth of America's 24,000,000 school children were handicapped by poor eyesight.

Henry urged proper illumination in school rooms, declaring that the danger was not in the volume of artificial light, but in the glare resulting from unshaded light sources.

TO SELECT MOST SACRIFICING WAR MOTHER IN STATE

The state of Ohio will pay the expense to the National Convention of the American War Mothers in Kansas City, Missouri, from September 29th to October 5th, of the Ohio mother who sent the greatest number into the service in the late war and out of that number lost the most. This is the information received by Dr. B. R. McClellan, commander of Foody Post, American Legion. The message says: "The Governor has asked the American Legion of Ohio to name the Ohio mother who made this greatest sacrifice. Accordingly, you are urged to take immediate steps to determine the mother in your community who, in your opinion, made the greatest sacrifice and write us immediately setting forth the details of her sacrifice together with her name and address."

"It is necessary that your nomination of the mother for this honor be in Department Headquarters not later than September 25, next Tuesday. Please give this matter your immediate attention and report at once so that no one who merits the honor will be overlooked."

CECIL FANNING IS BOOKED IN CONCERT

An open date on the schedule of Cecil Fanning, eminent baritone, made it possible for him to be booked in concert here at City Hall Theater, Thursday, October 4, under the auspices of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia.

Fanning is a poet and librettist as well as a singer. He is the author of the libretto of "Sir Olof," a successful cantata and "The Foolish Virgins," a recent work. Many of his lyrics set to music by Charles Wakefield Cadman, Geoffrey O'Hara, Lucile Crews and others are widely used on the concert stage. The prize-winning composition which gained the award of the Federation of Women's Clubs last June is a musical setting to Mr. Fanning's poem "Spring in Sicily."

The latest composition Fanning is responsible for and the most ambitious, is the libretto of an opera "Algalia," the composer being another Ohioan, Francesco B. De Leone. It has been accepted for publication by the Schirmer house and will be produced for the first time in Cleveland, February 28.

The concert to be presented here will be a pretentious medley of the baritone's best efforts. Harry Brown Turpin will accompany him as pianist. Seats are on sale at the Sayre and Hemphill drug store.

ATTEMPT TO STOP BETTING FAILS

Columbus, Sept. 20.—The Ku Klux Klan here today lost its fight to suppress race track betting. Common Pleas Judge Warner dismissed the suit in which David A. Edgar, Columbus, sought an injunction restraining officials of the Columbus Driving Park Association from permitting betting on races at the Columbus Driving Park where the fall meeting of the grand circuit is now being held.

Among other charges, Edgar alleged that the betting is a detriment to the community and claimed "proper officials" failed in their duty to enforce anti-gambling laws. Judge Warner held that insufficient cause were submitted to constitute a cause of action. He ruled, also, that failure of the officials to prohibit betting affords no grounds on which a court of equity can interfere.

Judge L. B. Houck, Mt. Vernon, was re-elected secretary. Judge Crow has for 13 years been on the Ohio appellate bench. As chief justice he automatically becomes a member of the new judicial council created by act of the last state legislature.

AMERICAN LEGION PRAISED BY FESS

Toledo, Sept. 20.—The American Legion is the most competent organization to lead the work of converting aliens into citizens of the United States. United States Senator Simeon D. Fess declared Wednesday in an address before representatives of the Legion and of civic associations, at a "Constitution Week" observance meeting.

"How shall we guarantee our American principles of free speech and avoid irreparable injury to the Government?" Mr. Fess asked.

"It becomes a matter of education rather than of legal enactment. Obedience to law through an attitude of mind is vastly better than through fear of punishment."

"It must be the work that reaches the adult. This is a splendid field for the numerous business, semi-business, civil and social clubs. But of all the agencies for such promulgation of sound popular opinion based upon a healthy sentiment, the American Legion is the most competent, and best adapted to lead this work."

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

JOAN IS GETTING BEYOND CONTROL

I was uneasy for a few days after Paul's outburst, his declaration that he must have more money, then dismissed it as one of his temperamental vagaries. Surely now that we were so comfortable he would do nothing foolish. He was older now, would look at things in a more reasonable light.

At this time I became very anxious about Joan. She was almost entirely beyond control. Not that I thought she did anything wrong, but she insisted upon going where she would, tea dances and the like. She was tall, well developed and would pass for a year or two older than she was. Her girl friends were all older than she, and I thought them a bad influence for her.

One afternoon she came in at dinner time with a parcel under her arm. I asked what it was.

"My corsets," she replied nonchalantly.

"Your corsets?" I replied amazed. "What of it? All the girls park their corsets when they dance."

I was so shocked I couldn't speak. My little Joan taking off her clothes before she danced. She saw the effect of her admission had on me and petulantly exclaimed:

"You needn't look so shocked. All the rich girls park their corsets. It's more comfortable and we can dance better."

"I shall forbid you dancing any more," I told her.

"If you do I'll run away. Just because you are old-foggy I'm not going to be. I'm going to do what other girls do."

"You are too young, Joan," I tried to speak calmly. "Most of the girls you go with are older. And I don't believe their mothers know of their actions."

"One would think I had been stealing or something. Don't be silly, Mother. You're ages behind the times. We grubbed along for years, all the time Dad was gone. I was ashamed all the time, hated everything and everybody. Now that things are different I'm going to be different too. If you are cross, won't let me do as other girls do, I'll run away and get married or something."

"I could hardly repress a smile. Not quite 15 and talking of getting married. I said no more, but at first opportunity told Paul. He only laughed, but I knew he had talked to Joan, had seen severe with her. She pouted and sulked for days. He so seldom interfered with her in any way that what he said made an impression. I could only hope it would last."

In a way I felt guilty. Because of my struggle for existence I had been obliged to leave my girls to their own resources. Joan, as a result had drifted away from me, would not acknowledge my authority exercised too late I knew the young girls were more in evidence than ever before. The paper were full of the doings of the "flappers." They termed their bold actions "one of the lamentable results of the war; the freedom allowed them while their parents were otherwise engaged." But until this episode of the corsets had given such stories little thought. Now I wondered if they were true, if young girls were bold, did things which in my youth would have put them without the pale—did them with impunity?

I spoke of this to Dave Logan, saying nothing about Joan.

"It's true enough," he replied. "They think it cute to shock people and some of them are mighty attractive when they are naughty," he added with a smile. Then more seriously: "Girls are women too aren't what they used to be. Ruby. Not like you. I guess that's one reason you appeal to me. You are Joan's mother, yet I'd make a bet that you are far more innocent in the ways of the world—of men than she is. I'm a rough fellow, like my fun all right. Have it too. But when it comes right down to caring, you're the sort a man really likes."

Again I gave his words no personal meaning. What he had said of Joan occupied by thoughts. I had been careful not to mention her, yet he had not hesitated to imply that she was not ignorant of—men.

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR MOBILIZING MORE TROOPS THROUGHOUT STATE

LEGISLATURE TO WEIGH CHARGES AGAINST WALTON

Members of Lower House to Meet in Oklahoma Wednesday.

COURT PROCEEDINGS

Interest Now Centers In Case to Determine Final Authority

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 20.—Governor J. C. Walton, in an exclusive interview today, declared that additional troops are being mobilized to prevent any "treasonable assemblage" of the Oklahoma legislature. Speaker Murray Gibson, of the House of Representatives, announced officially today that Governor Walton would ignore absolutely the call for the special legislative session to convene next Wednesday.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 20.—"Call off your gunmen at the state capitol or trouble may start. Military dictatorship of Oklahoma can no longer be endured. The legislature demands the right to meet."

In such militant language legislators of Oklahoma will demand this week of Governor J. C. Walton the removal of military guards barring entrance to the house and senate chambers in the first definite act of a movement of such rising intensity and bitterness as to occasion among moderates general alarm for public safety and peace.

A prominent member of the lower house of the state legislature used the language quoted above in making known to a confidante the fact that the legislature is ready to strike. Within 24 hours formal demand for opening of the legislative chambers will be made on the governor by a quorum of the lower house, it was learned on unquestionable authority. The demand will be filed with Attorney General Short.

Before that swelling tide of opposition in the legislative branch of the state government, Governor Walton stands steadfast. He reiterated with emphasis his determination to block convening of the legislature by direct force. "The soldiers stay at the legislative chambers and the legislature stay out," the governor said. "They shall not meet. They haven't the right. Nothing in our constitution gives them that right. I, as the governor of the state, in command of the military, will prevent any and all interference with my authority and right to clean up the Ku Klux Klan and its corruption of official life in this state."

Quorum Reported Obtained. Meanwhile, the plans to convene the legislature, the lower house first and the senate later, came out in the open. Legislators began coming into the city from all over the state. The campaign had reached full effect when it was reported from a reliable source that a quorum of the house had been obtained. Sixty-five representatives have been polled and found supporting the move to convene the legislature despite the militant forbiddance of the chief executive.

A majority of the members of the lower House of Representatives will meet here on next Wednesday to consider charges of misconduct in office against Governor J. C. Walton under a call issued early today by Representative W. D. McBee, of Duncan. Simultaneously with the announcement of the call, McBee claims to have the support of 59 members of the House, which is five more than a constitutional majority necessary to meet.

Members of the legislature seeking a special session, in a long list of complaints, today charged Walton of abusing his powers as chief executive. Among 24 grave allegations, solons charged that the governor had set aside the writ of habeas corpus, and "has turned loose upon the honest citizens of the state a horde of murderers and criminals of all characters."

MRS. STOKES MAKES CHARGE

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Subpoenas for 22 persons were issued and an investigation that threatened to reduce society and the underworld to common levels begun here today after Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes, of New York, told the state's attorney that her millionaire husband had been spending thousands of dollars in an effort to make it appear that she once had been an inmate in a Chicago brothel, famous for its patronage drawn from the ultra rich.

er boat, to continue his single-handed tour of the world. He sailed from Cannes, France, April 5, and landed at Fort Totten Long Island, after traversing 5,600 miles of ocean. He was often without sleep for four days at a time and for 48 hours was unconscious from illness.

Legless Soldier Charges Doctor With Malpractice

Washington, Sept. 20.—One of the American army annals re-convened here today with Major George W. Cook, a medical corps officer, defending himself against the charges of malpractice and neglect brought by a pitiful figure of a boyish soldier, legless at the hips.

In a crowded room in the munitions building, nine officers representing every branch of the service sat as a court to hear the testimony of Private Guy Pendleton, hopelessly crippled, who charges that first one and then the other of his legs were amputated because of improper medical treatment and negligence.

Major Cook was formerly in charge of the post hospital at Fort Eustis, Va.

Another attempt will be made by trial judge advocate Humphrey Bidde today to introduce as evidence the boy's amputated right leg. This attempt was made Monday and failed.

At Pendleton's side at the courtroom sat his aged mother, who, it was alleged had not been notified of her son's serious condition until after all hope of saving his limbs had been abandoned.

More than sixty witnesses will be heard before the court martial is brought to a conclusion. Thirty-one have been summoned in behalf of the prosecution.

In August, 1922, Private Pendleton, then assigned to Post Eustis with the coast artillery, was injured in a motor cycle accident suffering fractures in both legs. He was taken to the Post Hospital where Major Cook set the limbs.

Left in the care of Captain Samuel C. Gwna, hospital doctor, who also will answer charges of malpractice at the conclusion of Major Cook's trial, Pendleton testified he was in extreme pain; that his limbs were improperly treated and that eventually both withered. He was then brought to Walter Reed Hospital here, but his legs could not be saved and it was necessary to save his life that both be amputated, one in February, the other in March.

SAYS CONSTITUTION IS MADE FOR MAN

Piqua, Sept. 20.—"Remember the constitution was made for man, not man for the constitution," Senator J. F. Burke, of Elvira, candidate for Republican nomination for governor, declared here in a mass meeting discussing the "constitution and progress." While emphasizing the value of the constitution for the purpose of protecting the rights and the accomplishment of ends through orderly processes, he declared that he was not at all in sympathy with "those whose desire and determination to magnify sacredness of the constitution is due to their desire to protect the 'status quo' or property claims from the growing demand of humanity's needs which are just and righteous."

"The constitution is made for the race and not the race for the constitution. If it fails to perform its designed function, it should be remedied so that it may perform it," Burke said. "Its failure in relation to slavery caused a great civil war and we had to amend it to prohibit the buying and selling of human flesh."

PAIR RETURNED TO STATE ON CHARGE OVERHEAD EXPENSE WILL BE REDUCED

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Reduction of overhead expense in the administrative organization of the church is proposed in several memorials to be presented today to the annual Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church meeting here, which if adopted will be presented to the general conference in Springfield, Mass., next May.

Consolidation of the present 12 benevolent boards into four, discontinuance of the area office for benevolent work and elimination of a number of salaried workers are contemplated in the proposed memorials, one providing for the election instead of appointment by the bishop, of district superintendents and the other limiting the maximum term of superintendents to six years as to be considered today.

DISTINGUISHED WITNESSES WILL GIVE TESTIMONY

Governor Donahey Will Act as Character Witness for Hoskins

OTHERS TO APPEAR

Liquor Conspiracy Case In Cleveland Draws New Testimony.

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Governor A. V. Donahey will appear tomorrow afternoon as a character witness for Samuel A. Hoskins, Joseph Shearer and Frank and Fred Counts, now being tried on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law and obstruct the operation of the law in United States district court here, it was announced this afternoon.

In addition to Governor Donahey the array of character witnesses will include ex-Governor James M. Cox, ex-Governor James E. Campbell, United Senators Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess, and other men prominent in the affairs of the state. All these are scheduled to testify tomorrow.

None of these distinguished citizens are expected to testify in any way in regard to the alleged conspiracy, but all are said to be well acquainted with the defendants and able to testify to the good repute in which they are held by those who know them.

Never, it was said here, had such a distinguished company of men been called upon to testify as witnesses in only case in the local district court.

Former Governor Cox appointed Hoskins chairman of the first civil service board in the state while Senators Willis and Fess, both former professors of Ohio Northern of which he has been for sixteen years chairman of the board of trustees are also well acquainted with him.

Before these character witnesses take the stand, each of the four defendants, all well known throughout the state, will have denied in total the claims of the government that they entered into a conspiracy with Louis Auerbach and his attorney, Samuel Rembrandt to violate the laws of the state and to permit the release of vast quantities of alcohol upon the payment of bribes.

BENHAM IS OUT ON $30,000 BOND

Columbus, Sept. 20.—William G. Benham, president of the defunct R. L. Dollings Company of Ohio, was out on $30,000 bond today, following his arrest here Wednesday, and Dwight Harrison, vice president and secretary, was expected to give himself up to authorities upon his return from Philadelphia.

Both men are to be arraigned Friday morning under four indictments containing six counts, charging them with obtaining money under false pretenses, making false statements, and embezzlement. The indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday. Trial has been set for October 15.

COOLIDGE FAVORS MERGER OF ROADS

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge favors the tentative plans of the Interstate Commerce Commission to consolidate American railroads into a few major systems. It was learned today following a conference at the White House between the executive and N. L. Amster of Boston, president of the Citizens National Railroad League. Voluntary consolidation of the railroads was provided for by the transportation act of 1920, but thus far the carriers have been unable to agree upon any practical scheme of amalgamation.

DENIES RUMORS OF HER WEDDING

Ann Pennington, beautiful dancer, has been reported as secretly married in New York City to Brooke Johns, of Washington D. C., her leading man in "Jack and Jill." Miss Pennington denies the rumor.

MERCHANTS OF N. Y. FEAR HEAVY LOSSES AS STRIKE RESULT

New York, September 20.—The vital importance of newspaper advertising to the leading department and specialty stores of New York City has been demonstrated clearly by two days of the pressmen's strike that has caused climination of display advertising from the big dailies. Appraisals of the effect of the strike in this field of business were given today by officials of the chief stores in the city.

While few of the officials interviewed were willing to forecast the harmful effect to their business that might be caused if the strike should be prolonged, the consensus of opinion expressed was that the cutting off of liaison between the dealers and the public by the absence of newspaper advertising would be reflected not only in the retail trade but in all other business using the newspapers as a medium.

One official said if the present condition were continued long enough it might cause unemployment in the stores. Another declared that, notwithstanding the fact that his store largely had permanent customers, inability to promote sales through newspaper advertising "guide posts" caused a state of uncertainty in customers which had a deleterious effect on sales, a third official said.

Stores depending largely on special sales were affected most seriously by the loss of the newspaper columns. The announcements of these sales in the newspapers bring throngs of shoppers looking especially for the things advertised. Usually such sales are conducted after only a few days' advance advertising, and the newspapers are the only medium by which the vast public can be advised of the sales.

The effect of the present strike also is especially noticeable at this season, because the stores are placing their new fall goods on sale. Advance advertisements for new styles, necessary to pave the way for the heavy seasonal business, cannot be sent out without the newspapers, and for this reason the heads of most of the stores fear the loss of advertising will have a harmful effect on business later in the season.

INTEREST CENTERS IN DISTRICT COURT

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 20.—Interest in other phases of martial law was suspended today and the eyes of all Oklahoma turned to district Judge Albert Hunt's Court here where military and civil officers will battle legally for the decision as to who is the final authority in Oklahoma. The fight is over the right of habeas corpus. The proceedings scheduled for 1:30 p. m. involve the appearance in Judge Hunt's court of Adjutant General B. H. Markham, of the Oklahoma national guard with Earl Sack and Ben and Grover Sikes, confessed and convicted in a civil court of whipping. Although turned over to the sheriff by the presiding judge the prisoners were given over to General Markham by Governor Walton. Now the men's wives seek their release from military authority through habeas corpus proceedings. It is reported that the summons to appear in court will be entirely disregarded by General Markham, but this is regarded as unlikely.

HUNDREDS ARE KILLED IN COMMUNIST RIOTS REPORTED IN BULGARIA

No Official News of Fighting Received at London Legation—Situation at Sofia Said To Be Under Control Now

London, Sept. 20.—Hundreds of persons have been killed in fighting between Bulgarian communists and troops, according to a Daily Chronicle dispatch from Sofia today.

At the Bulgarian legation it was said no news had been received concerning an uprising.

A telegram from Vienna quoted Bulgarian legation officials as saying that communication with Sofia was interrupted and that there was no official news of fighting.

Both the Chronicle and Daily Express correspondents at Belgrade reported violent fighting in northern Bulgaria. They said that the casualties were heavy.

The situation at Sofia was under control.

The Bulgarian insurgents were said to have won a victory at Radomir, establishing a provisional government. Roads were torn up to hinder the advance of regular troops.

The rebels claimed victories at Karlovo, Dupitza and Salikovo, capturing munitions and arms.

The fighting was sanguine. Neither side took prisoners. Captives were put to death if they surrendered.

The Zankoff government at Sofia was said to have taken refuge in a club guarded by troops with machine guns.

Belgrade, Sept. 20.—The backbone of the communist revolt in northern Bulgaria has been broken by the prompt measures of the government, said a dispatch from Sofia today. The Macedonian committee is threatening to join the insurgents. Sofia charges that neighboring Balkan states gave assistance to the rebels. Martial law is being strictly enforced.

COOLIDGE SAYS ENFORCING OF LAWS NECESSARY

Each State Must Do Its Share—Federal Courts Congested

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge plans to bring about a more drastic enforcement of laws by requiring each state in the union to assume its share in prosecutions, it was learned at the White House.

The program is aimed directly at dry law enforcement, but involves all federal laws where states have similar statutes, it was stated at the department of justice. A comprehensive survey of the situation has just been completed by Attorney General Daugherty.

This study revealed that the whole trouble has been brought about by state legal officials throwing all of their prosecutions into the federal courts. This situation can be remedied by the simple expedient of having the states relieve the United States judiciary of the burden, it was stated. If President Coolidge calls a conference of Governors in October, as now contemplated, he will lay such a program before them and ask their co-operation in putting it into execution. If not he is expected to communicate with the state executives direct, it is understood.

In the meantime instructions have been issued to district attorneys and federal officials in the various districts to have them endeavor to have local officials try all cases where state and federal laws are nearly identical.

The main congestion is for violations of the prohibition law, it was stated, but there has been a growing tendency to throw any number of fraud cases into the federal courts when they could be tried just as well, or better, by the state judiciary. As a result, the courts are so far behind that the once famed machinery of speedy justice in "Uncle Sam's courts" is a tradition instead of fact, the department of justice stated. It is this situation, it was learned, that has prompted President Coolidge to seek co-operation in the enforcement of all laws instead of limiting the program to dry enactments.

With a few exceptions the states have dry laws fully as drastic as the federal statutes. The states also have a more elaborate machinery for the detection of law violations, it was stated, and make the majority of arrests, but when they do, instead of bringing prosecutions for violations of the city and state laws, the arresting officers almost invariably turn the prosecution over to the United States attorney.

Experts at the department of justice, who have been working on the program, believe that the revenue from penalties, which now comes into the federal treasury, may easily be dispensed with by the government and held out as an inducement to states to take a hand.

MRS. MAMIE CROW DIES ON THURSDAY

After a short illness, following an attack of acute diabetes, Mrs. Mamie E. Crow, 42, of 135 East Main Street, died at the Espey Hospital, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Crow was taken ill Wednesday with the disease from which she had suffered for some time and was removed by her attending physician to the Espey Hospital, a short time before she died.

Mrs. Crow was born in Bridgeport, Greene County, and had spent practically all of her life in Xenia. She lived a number of years ago in Dayton. Her son, Wilfred Crow, was killed only a few months ago, when a machine in which he was riding was struck by a train, on the Cincinnati Avenue crossing. The only near surviving relative, is a brother Heller Hampton, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Mrs. Crow was a member of the First Baptist Church, but was a birthright Quaker. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Secretaries and other officials of automobile clubs all over the country were in Cleveland today for the opening of the automobile club convention under the auspices of the National Motorists Association. The convention will continue Friday and Saturday with headquarters at the hotel Hollenden.

The Cleveland Automobile Club and the Ohio State Automobile Association are acting as hosts to the visiting automobile club officials who represent more than 100,000 motorists and 350 clubs.

The convention will produce results of direct benefit to hundreds of thousands of automobile owners. Calcy said. One of the important matters to be taken up is that of uniform headlights. H. M. Lucius, of Baltimore, a national authority on motor vehicle lighting, was to give a demonstration today on proper headlight focal adjustment.

PEACE IN RUHR IS CONSIDERED NEAR

Rambouillet, France, Sept. 20.—President Millerand and Premier Poincare today made a report to the cabinet upon the successful reparations conversations with Premier Baldwin, of England, yesterday. The cabinet which met at President Millerand's summer home, approved the viewpoint of the president and premier.

It is reported persistently that Great Britain will make concessions to France upon the Ruhr reparations issue.

PUBLISHERS WILL FIGHT STRIKERS

New York, Sept. 20.—Curtailed metropolitan newspapers—in size and editions loomed as a possibility—for an indefinite period today when New York newspaper publishers called off all dealings with the 2,000 striking pressmen, who walked out early Tuesday morning.

Basine their action upon the declaration of George L. Berry, international president of the Pressman's Union, who branded the strike "outlaw," the newspaper owners have served notice upon Berry that they not "deal with the defiant New York web pressman's union, local No. 25 and would await his promised action to revoke the charter of this local union and to charter a legal union."

The statement of the publishers was to be presented to the striking pressmen at a meeting this afternoon.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

The best time for giving the below suggestions is a thorough trial is immediately upon arising in the morning.

All that is required to carry them out is one or two quart of boiling water, a minute quantity of salt, and a cup that will hold from one-half a pint to one pint of water. The second phase of this treatment is exercise.

Before beginning the nerve-stimulating exercise drink the first cup of hot water, putting a pinch of salt in the bottom of the cup to take away the flat taste of the hot water. Pour the cup half full of boiling water and then add cold water until it is sufficiently cool to be rapidly swallowed. Drink the water as hot as possible without sipping it.

Now place the open palm of the left hand on the forehead. Now while pressing vigorously against the movement, bring the head from far backward to far forward. Continue until fatigued and vary the exercise by using the right hand instead of the left.

Then interlace fingers behind the left leg just above the knee. Now, while slightly resisting the movement with the left, lift upward vigorously. Continue the movement until a slight feeling of fatigue is produced.

Now stand erect, spine rigid and straight as possible. Bring the left leg upward, bending the knee and grasping the leg almost under the knee. Now lift the leg as high as possible by merely bending the arms at the elbow. Continue each one of these movements until a feeling of fatigue is noticed, after which you are ready for a second cup of hot water.

Don't hurry. Don't continue any movement to exhaustion, although a feeling of local fatigue in the particular muscles concerned is desirable. This feeling, however, should entirely disappear after a rest of one or two minutes. After the second cup of hot water you are ready for the exercises.

Hook the fingers of the right and left hands together at the back of both legs a little above the knee. Now make a vigorous lift upward. Relax and repeat until a definite sensation of fatigue is produced.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

ARTICLE II, SECTION 35

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 35 OF ARTICLE II OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATING TO WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each House concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law, at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1923, a proposal to amend section 35 of article II of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE II.
Sec. 35. For the purpose of providing compensation to workmen, in the event of death, disability or occupational disease, occasioned in the course of such workmen's employment by the state, determining the terms and conditions upon which payment shall be made therefrom. Such compensation shall be in lieu of all other rights to compensation, or damages, for such death, disability, or occupational disease, and any employer who pays the premium or compensation provided by law, pasted in accordance herewith, shall not be liable to respond in damages at common law or by statute for such death, disability or occupational disease. Laws may be passed establishing a board which may be empowered to classify occupations, according to the degree of hazard, to fix rates of contribution to such fund according to such classification, and to collect, administer and distribute such fund, and to determine all rights of claimants thereto. Such board shall set aside as a separate fund such proportion of the contributions paid by employers as in its judgment may be necessary, not to exceed one per centum thereof in any year, and so as to equalize, insofar as possible, the burden thereof, to be expended by such board in such manner as may be provided by law for the investigation and prevention of industrial accidents and diseases. Such board shall have full power to employ such personnel as may be necessary for the protection of the lives, health or safety of employees, enacted by the General Assembly or in the form of an order adopted by such board, and its decision shall be final; and for the purpose of such investigations and inquiries it may employ referees. When it is found, upon hearing, that an injury, disease or death resulted because of such failure by the employer, such amount shall be found to be just, not greater than fifty nor less than fifteen per centum of the maximum award established by law shall be paid by the board, to the amount of the compensation that may be awarded on account of such injury, disease or death, and paid in like manner as other awards; and, if such compensation is paid from the state fund, the premium of such employer shall be increased in such amount, covering such period of time as may be fixed, as will recoup the state fund in the amount of such additional award, notwithstanding any and all other provisions in this constitution.

SCHEDULE. If a majority of the electors voting on said amendment shall be ascertained, according to law, to have voted in favor thereof, the same shall take effect on the first day of January, 1924, and said original section 35 of article II of the constitution of Ohio shall thereupon be repealed.

Be it further resolved, That at the election herein provided for, the submission of this amendment to the electors of the state, the same shall be placed upon this official ballot in the manner provided by law, and shall be designated as follows:

Providing compensation for all accidents and diseases arising out of employment, providing additional compensation for employees where accident or disease results from failure to comply with specific requirements for the protection of lives, health and safety of employees, abolishing open liability of employers, and providing a fund for the investigation and prevention of industrial accidents and diseases.

And be it further resolved, That the required publication of said amendment shall be made, and the form of the ballot to be used at said election for the submission thereof, shall be prepared by the secretary of state in conformity with law and the foregoing provisions.

H. H. GRISWOLD,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

EARL D. BLOOM,
President of the Senate.

Adopted April 6th, 1923.

ARTICLE V, SECTION 1

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE V, SECTION 1, OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATIVE TO THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each House concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1923, a proposal to amend article V, section 1, of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to read as follows:

ARTICLE V.
Section 1. Every citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the state one year next preceding the election, and of the county, township or ward, in which he resides, such time as may be provided by law, shall have the qualifications of an elector, and be entitled to vote at all elections.

Be it further resolved, That at such election above referred to, this proposal shall be placed on the official ballot in the manner provided by law in such form as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall become a part of the constitution, and original section 1 of article V of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled.

H. H. GRISWOLD,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

EARL D. BLOOM,
President of the Senate.

Adopted April 6th, 1923.

MISS PRUGH WEDNESDAY.

Miss Mildred Prugh, whose marriage will take place next month, the honor guest at a beautiful reception party, given by Miss Marie Flynn, Wednesday afternoon, from four to six, at her home, North Detroit Street.

Sixty guests spent the hours, sitting in groups, about the spacious rooms of the Flynn home. At five o'clock, the dining room was thrown open and a delicious luncheon of salad, ices and sweets was served buffet style.

SAYS FISH BLOWN OUT OF WATER

Strong winds on Lake Erie are blowing the fish out of the lake onto the beaches where they are picked up by ardent anglers, according to a letter read at the Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday night from S. M. McKay, city commissioner sojourning at Lakeside.

The fish come out frozen and ready to be packed and shipped according to the letter, which must have been written during one of the windstorms referred to. Members of the Kiwanis Club, although taking the letter as a lot of wind, are going to require McKay and Ed S. Davidson, who is with him, make good on their promise to furnish fish for a fish supper at the Xenia Country Club next Wednesday.

The supper will climax a Kiwanis club golf tournament and if Davidson and McKay cannot make good and furnish the fish they will have to bring the canned variety of "gold fish" used in the army.

DRIFTING INTO THE WHIRLPOOL.

It is admitted everywhere that the fiscal situation of Germany is desperate. Its currency is worth nothing. The German government has almost no revenue except the worthless bills it prints. Trade, both external and internal, is ceasing, for no one will exchange valuable goods for meaningless bits of paper. A very large part of the German nation has already gone down to ruin and semistarvation. A much larger part is uneasy and angry, ready for any reckless means of escape from its unhappy situation.

Yet the disorder is purely financial. The industrial system of Germany, the real wealth of the nation, in land and productive machinery, is in as good condition as ever. Some say it is better, and that money that ought to have gone to the support of the government and the payment of its international liabilities has been deliberately used to extend and improve the industrial and commercial resources of the nation. That is what M. Poincare has in mind when he warns the world from the political platform that Germany still aims at "economic primacy" and would quickly achieve it if it could wriggle out of its obligations under the Versailles Treaty.

The German policy of endless inflation has succeeded in creating the impression that Germany is bankrupt and unable to pay. It has, indeed, actually made it impossible for Germany to pay in any coin that the allied nations will accept. But it has not destroyed the economic wealth of the country. It has simply transferred the ownership of it from those who formerly held it to the speculators, the profiteers and the industrial organizers who were shrewd enough to see how to "make money" out of the falling mark. It has wiped out, or nearly wiped out, all old debts, public and private, has beggared the thrifty and well-to-do class and conferred wealth and political power on the "hard-faced" men, of whom Stinnes is the type.

But its worst effect is not economic but moral. The virtues, on which Germany grew great—thrift, industry, love of learning, thoroughness, orderly family and community life—are threatened, and many of them are destroyed. There is no motive for thrift no reward for industry no respect for learning.

THE BUSINESS OF TEACHING.

Teaching is the most universal of the professions. Nearly everyone, at some time or other, has to act in the capacity of teacher; comparatively few persons except those specially trained have to act in the capacity of lawyer or doctor or minister. So it is important that everyone should try to acquire some of the simple rudiments of the art of teaching.

First of all it is necessary to have a friendly attitude toward both pupil and subject. The "boss" or the foreman who takes the new employee in hand and in a friendly, interested manner instructs him in the work that he is to perform will get good results; the boss who scowls at the novice, resents his greenness and shows that he himself is tired and disgusted at the idea of having to tell a new hand what to do is sure to be a poor teacher. And enthusiasm about the value of the work to be performed and the interest to be found in doing it is sure to be contagious; the diffident and doubting apprentice can be roused to efficient labor if he has an instructor who is full of zeal and confidence.

Impatience is the failing of most persons who are not brought up to the business of teaching and who find themselves temporarily or incidentally required to act as teachers. The very fact that they are not accustomed to spend day after day watching and helping pupils in the struggle to acquire knowledge makes them fail to realize how slow for the ordinary persons the process of learning anything is. They become too much aware of the other things besides teaching that they themselves ought to do or want to do, and often in their irritation they resort to sharp reproof or to sneers and sarcasm—methods of stimulating the pupil that the good teacher adopts but sparingly and only at times of special stress.

The ability to teach successfully may usually be taken as the measure of a person's unselfishness.

PRINCE OF WALES SPENDS FIRST DAY ON HIS RANCH.

At High River, Monday, Lord Renfrew, known in England as the Prince of Wales, became a rancher. Although it is his own ranch, he did not pick himself an easy job and was at work at 8 o'clock helping a crew of husky farmhands fill silos with chopped sunflowers. He did not stand around and watch the boys do it. Wearing the same kind of clothes as his companion laborers, Lord Renfrew did the same kind of work. He took the lead in chopping the silage for the blooded livestock on the ranch.

Because he had just finished a long trip, Lord Renfrew started the day late and did not arise until 7 o'clock, his secretary explained. He hurried through his breakfast to be at work at 8.

"Lord Renfrew is going to finish the work of filling the silo and then do some stocking on the ranch," his secretary said while the Prince was eating a hearty noonday meal with the crew.

"How does he like it?"

"Just fine and he is feeling great," said the secretary.

Cowboys, ranchers and townspeople of the High River district accorded the Prince a hearty welcome when his train arrived. For the first time in Canada the Prince walked to the main street of the town unaccompanied by either Secret Service men or police.

"They are my neighbors, why should they not greet me?" asked the royal rancher and the police were compelled to watch the proceedings of welcoming the royal ranch owner from their private car.

As the Prince reached the street David Bear's Paw and Red Cloud, minor chiefs of the Stony Indians from the Morley reservation, were waiting to greet him. Bear's Paw stood erect and in perfect English said: "Greetings, Chief Morning Star; your brothers of the Stonies salute you."

The Prince hesitated for a moment, then gravely proffered his hand and said: "Morning Star is proud to greet his brothers." Those who overheard the conversation applauded heartily, and no one was more pleased than the Indians themselves.

Letters To The Editor

THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Editor The Gazette and Republican:

The Citizenship Committee of the American Bar Association at the recent National meeting of the Association recommended the celebration of a Constitution Week, Sept. 16th-22nd, for the purpose of promoting a "better education of our people in the essentials and spirit of our constitution and the principles and ideals of our government." The members of the bar in every community were recommended to give the matter their endorsement and support. A committee was appointed by the Greene County Bar Association to present a brief address to the people of the County in pursuance of the above recommendation.

It has been One Hundred and Thirty Six years, on Monday last, since the adoption of the written constitution by the convention, and its submission to the Congress and thirteen states. It is not out of place here to call attention to the fact, that this lapse of time has provided a pretty good test, as to the wisdom of the provisions embodied in the constitution.

Amendments have been made, it is true. But of the nineteen amendments ten were offered by the first Congress convening and were adopted, almost at once, by the States. One was adopted in 1794; another in 1803; three grew out of the Civil War and four are recent additions. It will be noticed, also, that but two subjects treated in the original draft of the Constitution have been revised or modified by amendment. All the other amendments may be considered as "omissions from the original or have become necessary by reason of the progress of the nation."

We would recall to your minds, and the other and more severe test, namely the growth and development of our nation under the wise and beneficent provisions of our constitution.

Under these, and by reason thereof, we have grown great as a people. We well know that others may take issue with us on this point, and in doing so, they will adduce the many, varied and important elements, which combine to produce material progress and well being. We will allow that all of these are present, and contribute in a vital way to national upbuilding. But it may well be doubted, if a single one of them, or all of them combined, could do more than meagerly effect our progress, without the strong, vigorous and efficient government organized by sanction of, and in strict conformity to the fundamental law of our land, certain it is that every element of our progress is strengthened and wrought to a high measure of effectiveness by reason of the same beneficent power. Today there are vast regions of the earth's surface so rich in natural resources, that they could alone, if properly used, furnish food supplies for a considerable number of the earth's inhabitants, into which, the more fortunate countries are today, or did in the recent past, ship vast quantities of food stuff, as aim sand benevolence to relieve actual starvation. And this because a weak or tyrannical government could, or did not so command the confidence of the people, that the human element could apply itself to the labor of production. One rather small island produces a large percent of the sugar used in this country. From Central Mexico southward, stretches a land containing regions of fertile soil, some of which are more extensive than the entire island of Cuba, yet producing only a little of sugar or any other commodity for home consumption, practically nothing for export. These conditions are not uncommon either. They prevail widely over the world. We, who live in a land under a system of law, so productive of the well being of all, are most happily situated, and we ought to entertain the most profound respect for that body of law, which is the expression of the Supreme Sovereignty of our people.

The Constitution has its critics. We do not pause to notice these. Let us merely say that some of these are sincere, and should be heeded; some are vain and foolish; still others are malicious and are fully determined upon mischief.

Following the recommendation of the American Bar Association, the Greene County Bar Association, desirous to recommend to the people of Greene County a most serious and painstaking consideration of the weighty matters herein indicated. We hope that this will be taken up in the community assemblies, in the church, brotherhoods, in high schools and colleges and wherever a wide-awake interest can be aroused on a truly great American question.

The American Bar Association recommended the following series of themes all related to the subject of the Constitution, as a sketch or outline for such study.

First.—The setting and inspiration of the Constitution, Magna Charta; Declaration of Independence, Articles of Federation.

Second.—Watchwords of the Constitution: A Government of Laws, not of men; Liberty under the Law; Equal opportunity to all citizens.

Third.—What the Bill of Rights in the Constitution has meant to the American people and what it means today.

Fourth.—John Marshall, his services in making our constitution the Supreme law of the land.

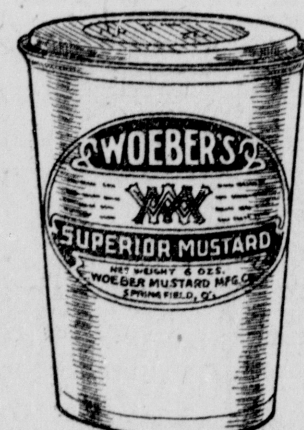

Fifth.—Present dangers to the free institutions established by the Constitution. Such as communism, government in business, disregard of individual rights.

Sixth.—To uphold the Constitution in his daily life and activities is the duty of each and every good citizen.

In conclusion permit us to say that the members of this Association hold themselves ready, freely and willingly to assist in any possible way in the furtherance of any movement suggested above or phase of it.

THE BREEZE FROM THE LAKE.
The August sun for three long days
Besieged the world with troops of
fire;
Relentlessly he held the ways
And watched our weakening courage
tire.
The breeze was landward, parched
and dry,
Scarce strong enough a leaf to shake,
And turned was many an anxious eye
To catch a ripple on the lake.

We saw a distant cloud arise,
A ship full-sailed and painted black,
But soon the monarch of the skies
Sent out his force and drove it back.
The couriers of the night returned
And brought but tales of pain and
grief:
For miles the fruitful fields were burned—

The lake alone could send relief.
Breeze after breeze by night and day
Battled the tyrant sun, and failed.
Children grew listless in their play,
The cheeks of weary mothers pale.
The trees stood silent, solemn, sad,
And seemed to pray: "For mercy
sake,
Send help! The sun will drive us
mad!
Lord, send a breeze across the lake!"

We saw a whitecap break the blue,
We saw a tree's arms move about,
And then we heard a song we knew,
The whistle of the north wind stout.
The leaves began to dance with gle,
We saw the sun's brown forces beat,
The siege was ended—we were free,
God's breeze had reached us from the lake.

Today's Talk

LET THE PEAKS LEAD YOU—

The human being doesn't live who travels all the time "on high," as they say in automobiles terms.

We all have to shift sometimes to "second" or into "low." The hard pulls take more power, more concentration.

Neither do we all scale the heights, nor travel them all the time. We are all of us acquainted with the valleys and the lowlands.

But that which leads us and keeps up our average so that we may go on and on with courage, is the "high spots" of our experience—the peaks of our vision.

It is an inspiring sight to view a range of distant mountains with their peaks looking into the blue sky above, some of them white with the eternal snow.

I like to look at a towering building with its upper stories piercing the air above. To me such a sight is the story of what a man is able to do with his dreams. And then I think of each man and woman and boy and girl whose life grows in service within the heart of that structure.

Let the peaks lead you, lift you up,

take your eyes off the ground.

The darkest day passes.
With every life there is intermission the stuff of eternity.

Only to him who has climbed, suffered, slipped back, does there come realization of what there is in the peak that always points upward.

So, my friend, let the peaks lead you!

OHIO BATTLE FLAGS TO BE CASED WITH SPECIAL CEREMONY

Ohio battle flags will be unfurled for the last time September 29, in Columbus, when flags used by Ohio organizations in the World War will be cased in permanently sealed cases, beside those containing the battle flags of other wars in the State House rotunda, according to announcement just made by the American Legion department of Ohio.

The ceremony for the occasion will consist of a parade from the State Arsenal to the State House for the purpose of escorting the flags to the State House. In the parade the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserves as well as the veterans of the late war will participate. As the colors approach the State House, the national salute will be fired by artillery. Upon the arrival at the State House the colors will be presented to the state by Major General McRae on behalf of the United States Army. They will be received by the Governor of the State.

It is desired that these battle flags be carried in their final parade by the same color sergeants who carried them in the war. Efforts are being made to invite color sergeants to Columbus for this occasion so that they may carry these colors. Color sergeants who served in Ohio regiments during the late war and who will attend the ceremonies are asked to write at once to the Adjutant General of Ohio setting forth his name and address together with the organization whose colors he carried in the World War.

The American Legion of Ohio was instrumental in obtaining legislation which made the permanent casing of these battle flags possible. The casing of these flags is a solemn and historic occasion. The flags will hereafter belong to future generations.

Every time I see a picture of a French boudoir, with its luxurious silks, its shaded lights, and its frivolous frills, I find myself thinking: "Well, it may be overdone—but it's got the right idea! It is soothing and restful and feminine."

Of all the rooms in the house, our bedroom should be the daintiest. We may not, with good taste, have delicate pinks and blues in our downstairs color schemes, but in our bedroom these tints are entirely suitable. Imagine a gilded droplight with a rose-bud decorated on your living room table; yet, in your bedroom such a lamp would merely add charm.

Why may we not have delicate colors and frilly ornaments downstairs? Because they destroy the dignity of a living room. But in the bedroom we need not think of dignity. The bedroom is the place where we let down our hair and slip on a dressing gown—where we relax for a period of rest. It should, therefore, be furnished and decorated in an informal manner.

I once overheard a woman, standing before a shop window, say: "Look at those telephone shields with china dolls at the top—aren't they ridiculous. What full-grown woman would buy one? And I just longed to argue with that critical person! I wanted to say to her: 'I would like one of those in my upstairs hallway. If we can't have intimate, personal things around us upstairs, where can we have them? Must we always be straight-laced and dignified? It is restful to our nerves to have surroundings upstairs that are in contrast with those downstairs."

The upper part of the house is the proper place for dainty surroundings. Let us not be ashamed to express our femininity there in ruffled curtains, lace bureau scarfs, decorative bed spreads, delicate colors, shirred lamp-shades, dainty work bags, a chaise-longue (if you can afford one!) unusual doorstops

(there are many sold, nowadays—kittens and bunnies and other animals prop a door open), quaint, old-time mirrors for the hallway, and anything else that will make the upstairs seem more intimate. Downstairs we can be ourselves—drooping the poles which we wear for callers, and just relaxing. Tomorrow—Recipes From Reader Friends

Now Outdoes Even Itself!

EVEN the amazing beauty of Wall Paper nowadays is not the most remarkable quality it has. True, the skill of American wall-paper designers, and the deft craftsmanship that uses this skill, seem to work miracles in creating Wall Paper that looks like velvet, like brocade, like leather, like silk and damask and chintz—and yet never is a mere counterfeit at all.

That is wonderful enough. But what is more wonderful is the way in which a capable Guildsman can so alter a badly shaped room—with clever use of Wall Paper. By ingenious handling of bands, borders, panels and patterns he transforms faulty proportions; makes too high ceilings seem suitably low; balances doors that are in the wrong place, overcomes the ugliness of windows, the uneven heights of openings—in a word, makes the room over!

No other decorative means can accomplish all that Wall Paper, in competent hands, easily—and most economically!—can and does.

Your home may be all that is perfect already. If it is less than that, consult any Guild member and learn what he and Wall Paper are able to do to make it the home you wish it were.

YOUTHS ACQUITTED BY JURY OF CHARGE BROUGHT BY GIRL

Herman and Argus Saylor and Lee Greth, indicted on a charge brought by a minor girl, were found not guilty of the charge by the jury which heard their case in Common Pleas Court and which reported at 9:15 o'clock, Wednesday night.

The jury began its deliberations at 3:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At 5:20 jurymen said they could not agree but were ordered to continue their deliberations. After the recess for the evening meal, the jury asked the court for further instructions and then retired again for deliberation. The verdict required a unanimous vote.

John O'Brian, was foreman of the jury, which listened to testimony in the case for two days. Pearl Goldsberry, aged 14, was the prosecuting witness. Prosecutor J. K. Williamson was assisted by Attorney L. T. Marshall and Attorneys F. L. Johnson and M. A. Broadstone represented the defendants.

The jury was dismissed finally for this term of court after bringing in the verdict. The court announced the case was the last for this term, and telling jurors they were just as important as any of the officials of the court, he thanked them for their services.

BAD EYES MAKE BAD BOYS HE SAYS

Boston, Mass. September 20.—"Bad eyes make bad boys," said Guy A. Henry, of New York, general director of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, before the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies Wednesday.

The director cited the eye records of Sing Sing Prison as tending to show that eye conditions were a possible incentive to crime and said one fourth of America's 24,000,000 school children were handicapped by poor eyesight.

Henry urged proper illumination in school rooms, declaring that the danger was not in the volume of artificial light, but in the glare resulting from unshaded light sources.

TO SELECT MOST SACRIFICING WAR MOTHER IN STATE

The state of Ohio will pay the expense to the National Convention of the American War Mothers in Kansas City, Missouri, from September 29th to October 5th, of the Ohio mother who sent the greatest number into the service in the late war and out of that number lost the most. This is the information received by Dr. B. R. McClellan, commander of Foody Post, American Legion. The message says: "The Governor has asked the American Legion of Ohio to name the Ohio mother who made this greatest sacrifice. Accordingly, you are urged to take immediate steps to determine the mother in your community who, in your opinion, made the greatest sacrifice and write us immediately setting forth the details of her sacrifice together with her name and address."

CECIL FANNING IS BOOKED IN CONCERT

An open date on the schedule of Cecil Fanning, eminent baritone, made it possible for him to be booked in concert here at City Hall Theater, Thursday, October 4, under the auspices of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus. Fanning is a poet and librettist as well as a singer. He is the author of the libretto of "Sir Olnuf," a successful cantata and "The Foolish Virgins," a recent work. Many of his lyrics set to music by Charles Wakefield Cadman, Geoffrey O'Hara, Lucile Crews and others are widely used on the concert stage. The prize-winning composition which gained the award of the Federation of Women's Clubs last June is a musical setting to Mr. Fanning's poem "Spring in Sicily." The latest composition Fanning is responsible for and the most ambitious, is the libretto of an opera "Algalia," the composer being another Ohioan, Francesco B. De Leone. It has been accepted for publication by the Schirmer house and will be produced for the first time in Cleveland, February 28. The concert to be presented here will be a pretentious medley of the baritone's best efforts. Harry Brown Turpin will accompany him as pianist. Seats are on sale at the Sayre and Hemphill drug store.

BIG LABOR BANK URGED

Mansfield, O., Sept. 19.—A gigantic Ohio labor bank with headquarters in Cleveland was urged by Dave Duncan of Cleveland at the Ohio state council of carpenters in convention here. Duncan's plan calls for central labor bodies in east Ohio cities of more than 10,000 population to organize a branch of the Federation Savings and Loan company of Cleveland.

BRINGING UP FATHER

ATTEMPT TO STOP BETTING FAILS

Columbus, Sept. 20.—The Ku Klux Klan here today lost its fight to suppress race track betting. Common Pleas Judge Warner dismissed the suit in which David A. Edgar, Columbus, sought an injunction restraining officials of the Columbus Driving Park Association from permitting betting on races at the Columbus Driving Park where the fall meeting of the grand circuit is now being held. Among other charges, Edgar alleged that the betting is a detriment to the community and claimed "proper officials" failed in their duty to enforce anti-gambling laws. Judge Warner held that insufficient facts were submitted to constitute a cause of action. He ruled, also, that failure of the officials to prohibit betting affords no grounds on which a court of equity can interfere.

JUDGES ELECT CHIEF JUSTICE

Columbus, Sept. 18.—Judge Phil M. Crow, Kenton, today was elected chief justice of the Judges of the Courts of Appeals of Ohio, succeeding Judge John Pollock, St. Clairsville. The election featured the annual meeting of the Ohio appellate judges, here. Judge L. B. Houck, Mt. Vernon, was re-elected secretary.

COUPLE WANTED IN MICHIGAN

AMERICAN LEGION Praised by Fess

Toledo, Sept. 20.—The American Legion is the most competent organization to lead the work of converting aliens into citizens of the United States. United States Senator Simeon D. Fess declared Wednesday in an address before representatives of the Legion and of civic associations, at a "Constitution Week" observance meeting. "How shall we guarantee our American principles of free speech and avoid irreparable injury to the Government?" Mr. Fess asked. "It becomes a matter of education rather than of legal enactment. Obedience to law through an attitude of mind is vastly better than through fear of punishment. "It must be the work that reaches the adult. This is a splendid field for the numerous business, semi-business, civil and social clubs. But of all the agencies for such promotion based upon a healthy sentiment, the American Legion is the most competent, and best adapted to lead this work."

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

JOAN IS GETTING BEYOND CONTROL Chapter XXXII.

I was uneasy for a few days after Paul's outburst, his declaration that he must have more money, then dismissed it as one of his temperamental vagaries. Surely now that we were so comfortable he would do nothing foolish. He was older now, would look at things in a more reasonable light.

At this time I became very anxious about Joan. She was almost entirely beyond control. Not that I thought she did anything wrong, but she insisted upon going where she would, tea dances and the like. She was tall, well developed and would pass for a year or two older than she was. Her girl friends were all older than she, and I thought there had been a bad influence for her.

One afternoon she came in at dinner time with a parcel under her arm. I asked what it was. "My corsets," she replied nonchalantly. "Your corsets!" I replied amazed. "What of it? All the girls park their corsets when they dance."

I was so shocked I couldn't speak. My little Joan taking off her clothes before she danced. She saw the effect of her admission had on me and petulantly exclaimed:

"You needn't look so shocked. All the rich girls park their corsets. It's more comfortable and we can dance better."

"I shall forbid you dancing any more," I told her.

"If you do I'll run away. Just because you are old-foggy I'm not going to be. I'm going to do what other girls do."

"You are too young, Joan," I tried to speak calmly. "Most of the girls you go with are older. And I don't believe their mothers know of their actions."

"One would think I had been stealing or something. Don't be silly, Mother. You're ages behind the times. We grubbed along for years, all the time Dad was gone. I was ashamed all the time, hated everything and everybody. Now that things are different I'm going to be different too. If you are cross, won't let me do as other girls do, I'll run away and get married or something."

"I could hardly repress a smile. Not quite 15 and talking of getting married. I said no more, but at first opportunity told Paul. He only laughed, but I knew he had talked to Joan, had been severe with her. She pouted and sulked for days. He so seldom interfered with her in any way that what he said made an impression. I could only hope it would last."

In a way I felt guilty. Because of my struggle for existence I had been obliged to leave my girls to their own resources. Joan, as a result had drifted away from me, would not acknowledge my authority exercised too late I knew the young girls were more in evidence than ever before. The paper were full of the doings of the "flappers." They termed their bold actions "one of the lamentable results of the war; the freedom allowed them while their parents were otherwise engaged." But until this episode of the corsets had given such stories little thought. Now I wondered if they were true, if young girls were bold, did things which in my youth would have put them without the pale—did them with impunity?

I spoke of this to Dave Logan, saying nothing about Joan. "It's true enough," he replied. "They think it cute to shock people and some of them are mighty attractive when they are naughty," he added with a smile. Then more seriously: "Girls are women too aren't what they used to be, Ruby. Not like you. I guess that is one reason you appeal to me. You are Joan's mother, yet I'd make a bet that you are far more innocent in the ways of the world—of men than she is. I'm a rough fellow, like my fun all right. Have it too. But when it comes right down to caring, you're the sort a man really likes."

Again I gave his words no personal meaning. What he had said of Joan occupied by thoughts. I had been careful not to mention her, yet he had not hesitated to imply that she was not ignorant of—men.
